The Teaching for Learning and Collaboration program (TLC) has helped hundreds of healthcare professionals develop the knowledge and skills needed to teach in the clinical environment.

THE TLC PROGRAM IS:

- A widely applicable teaching program for all health professions in a variety of healthcare settings
- An interactive program that allows participants to hear, see and do essential teaching skills
- A capacity-building program to create a viable network of distributed faculty development

WHY TLC?

- Fills a gap where there is a lack of teacher training for health professionals
- Capacity building (Train-the-trainer available)

WHAT MAKES IT EFFECTIVE?

- Interactive, collaborative and enhances essential teaching skills
- Flexible and adaptable to the needs of the organization and it’s staff

THE IMPACT OF TLC

- Part of the curriculum for the Education Scholars Program and The Centre for Faculty Development workshop series
- Included in IMG Psychiatry and Dentistry programs
- Takes place at more than 12 healthcare organizations
- A multitude of professions participate among various institutions
- Over 700 participants
- 95 trained facilitators

WHAT TLC CAN DO FOR YOU

- Encourages health professionals to strive to be better teachers
- Giving back to and engaging teachers by providing them with skills that they need
- Inspires commitment to teaching

Winner of the University of Toronto Helen P. Batty Award for Excellence and Achievement in Faculty Development (2009)

For more information, email borromeoc@smh.ca or visit cfd.utoronto.ca/tlc