WHAT IS TLC?

A 6 module longitudinal teaching skills program for multi-professional clinicians in healthcare. It focuses on the development of knowledge and skills needed to teach in the clinical environment.

The program is relevant to the varied teaching context of multi-professional faculty and allows participants to share their teaching experience and employ common teaching theory and behaviours together.

The development of the program was informed by social constructivism, andragogy and reflective practice.

Recipient of the 2009 Helen P. Batty Faculty Development Award for Innovation in Program Development and Design

TLC PROGRAM IMPACT

- TLC has filled a void in the infrastructure around supporting staff who want to teach better and provide education.
- Numerous university affiliated teaching hospitals have incorporated TLC into their professional development programs for interprofessional staff and learners.
- A wide range of professions at many institutions are involved and effected by the outcome of TLC including, but not limited to, management, administration and clinical faculty.

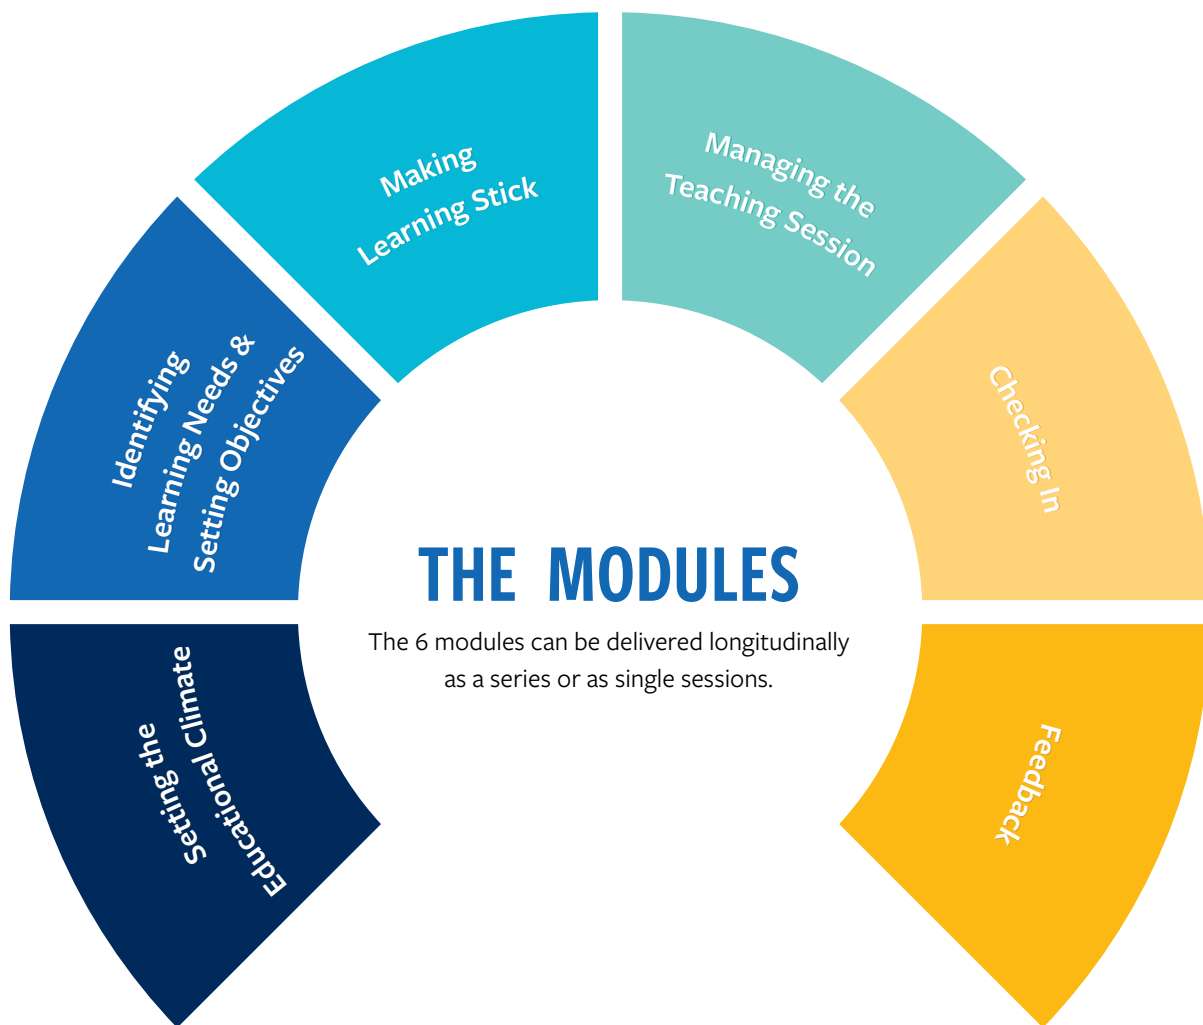

- Within 5 years, TLC has trained over 50 facilitators from 12 different institutions to meet the demand and bring the program to their sites.
- Overall, TLC has had nearly 700 participants since its inception in 2006.

Customization

- Through continuous feedback and evaluation, TLC has been adapted to suit various audiences and teaching/learning environments.

Each module includes:

- a. Pre-readings
- b. Facilitated group discussion
- c. A commitment to change exercise
- d. Role plays
- e. Deconstruction of re-enacted authentic teaching scenarios
- f. Teaching tip cards
- g. Interactive delivery of theoretical content

ACCESSING THE TLC PROGRAM

CFD Workshop Series

- TLC modules have been offered as a part of the Centre for Faculty Development's (CFD) workshop series since 2006.

Education Scholars Program

- TLC is currently part of the CFD's Education Scholars Program in the Teaching Excellence curriculum theme.

BRINGING TLC TO YOU

There are various ways to bring TLC to your site:

- We can come to you! The CFD can provide fully trained facilitators to offer customized variations of the modules that fit your needs.
- Train-the-Trainer is a one day program that is offered through the CFD. Upon completion, participants receive access to all TLC module materials and can offer TLC at their home institution.
